

Tips

What you need to know before packing Before starting to pack your move, there are some common household items that should not be included in your shipment. Below is a partial list of items that should not be shipped.

- Bleach
- House paints
- Open containers of liquid
- Propane tanks or cans
- Gas or oils
- Butane
- Ammunition
- Open alcohol containers
- Open non sealed food containers
- Aerosols
- Fire Extinguishers
- Welding Gas
- Antifreeze
- Disinfectant cleaners (especially those that contain bleach or ammonia)
- Perishable foods (unless the move meets strict guidelines &ndash; please check with your carrier about these to see if you move meets the guidelines)

- Items with excessive odour
- As a general rule, if the item is flammable, combustible or explosive it should not be included.

How to plan your move
Plan Ahead
Summer time is the busiest time of the year for movers. In addition, the beginning and end of each month are traditionally busier than mid-month, regardless of the season. If you are planning to move during one of the times, plan well in advance so your mover's schedule will fit yours. Now it is time to contact the movers on your list. Inform them of your destination and the timing of your move. Ask movers to provide you with a written estimate, and have them explain the services listed in the estimate in detail. Carefully compare each estimate to see which company best suits your needs and budget. Packing
Proper packing by a trained packer using specially designed cartons and materials is crucial to a good move. Schedule packing with the mover a day or two before the moving van is loaded. If you are packing yourself, it is never too soon to start. While packing yourself can save money, movers will not usually accept liability for damage to items packed by owners. Be present when your goods are packed. An inventory of your goods will be made and it is important to resolve any disagreements prior to signing the inventory. Make sure all copies are legible and all items are numbered. Have valuable items listed separately. Some appliances may require servicing prior to the move. Your mover can schedule these services for you. There are several options for insuring your goods. All household goods shipments move under limited liability. However, you may purchase additional liability coverage from your mover. Planning Your Moving Day
Your mover may ask you to select several consecutive days during which your goods can be loaded and a second series of dates during which your goods can be delivered to your new home. A spread of days gives you and your mover the flexibility needed to keep your move on schedule. Remember that summer months are the busiest, and some movers offer lower prices between the months of October and April. Moving Day

- Be on hand when the movers arrive
  - Discuss the delivery arrangements fully with your mover.
  - Have beds stripped and ready to be packed.
  - Save your energy - let the moving crew disassemble goods.
  - Read the Bill of Lading before you sign it.
  - Tell your mover how to reach you at your destination.
  - Keep in contact with the mover's agent at your destination while you are in transit.
- Delivery

Generally, your belongings will be transported in a van along with those of other families in the same general direction. This helps to keep your costs down. Delivery is made on any of the several consecutive days agreed upon before the move began. Make sure the mover knows how to contact you to schedule actual delivery. If you cannot be reached at destination, the mover may place your shipment in storage to avoid delaying other shipments. This can mean additional charges for storage and handling.

Upon delivery, check your goods for damage. Do not sign the inventory until you have inspected your furniture and the exterior of the cartons.
